This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. INFORMATION BY INTERPRETATION

In order to develop additional information of real significance from the basic data published in this ALMANAC, readers are invited to make full use of the journalistic technique of information by interpretation—the key to deriving meaningful detail from skeletal facts. For example, being aware that two or more different political parties have representation in a cabinet gives a broad idea of a government's strength, stability, and policies. A notation indicating a government's caretaker status or recent cabinet changes leads to considerations of potential shifts in political or international orientation. The field of comparative government can be opened by just noting the scope and meaning of official titles, following oscillations among Cabinet portfolios or being cognizant of the order in which positions are listed. Such relatively obvious data as the fact that a country has two capitals may lead to an investigation of that state's history, geographical divisions, or climatological circumstances. All in all, information by interpretation is a challenging business to the imaginative and the curious; it is capable, of course, of development far beyond the few examples given here.

EDITOR'S NOTES

EVENTS OF NOTE: During the past three months, international attention turned again toward the Caribbean. Cuba began grappling with the staggering economic problems arising out of its dismissal from the inter-American system for political deviation. Another severe crisis in the Dominican Republic was solved when Rafael Bonnelly traded arrest for the Presidency with General Pedro Echavarria. August 6th was announced as Jamaica's independence date as Trinidad and Tobago sought a parallel accommodation from the United Kingdom. On the shore, Britain's willingness to negotiate a settlement with Guatemala over British Honduras ran counter to Guatemala's demands for the return of Belice first. The fact that both are one in the same territory has done little to simplify the hundred year old dispute . . . The Congo faded from the headlines, but not from attention, as the disputants in Katanga and Leopoldville settled into detailed negotiations on political integration. In Algeria, the negotiations ended, but the tense struggle for power became as desperate as it has been tragic . . The mere political existence of Switzerland has always had a significant impact on the conduct of foreign policy: The Swiss not only host a multitude of regular and ad hoc international gatherings anually, but also serve as diplomatic representatives for some 20 states—from Togo in Nigeria to Romania in Spain . . . The little understood, hardly developed, and most perfunctory Union of Arab States dissolved recently when the United Arab Republic and Yemen decided to end the almost fictional organization. . . . Sergei Lapin, replaced as Foreign Minister of the Russian Federation by former Ambassador to the U.S. Mikhail Menshikov, has been appointed USSR Deputy Foreign Minister . . . The novel Western Somoan approach to independence features a continuing arrangement with New Zealand to handle foreign policy and retention of political power by the heads of extended family groups.

EVENTS TO WATCH: Canada has been giving every indication of preparing for as yet unannounced federal election this Spring . . . Ruanda-Urundi will soon be released from its trusteeship status under Belgian control. A republican Ruanda separate from a monarchial Urundi will then join the community of independent states . . . Tanganyika is expected shortly to divest itself of ties to the British Crown while retaining membership in the Commonwealth . . . The constant demand for political adjustment also found Malta seeking a new status with Britain, Nyasaland demanding separation from Rhodesia, and the Isle of Man requesting more internal control . . .

Digitized by Google

will be difficult given the general absence of the enonomic viability among the islands and Britain's belated interest in this area.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS: The Casablanca Bloc's penchant for functional sub-organizations contiued unabated with the formation of an African Common Market system . . . While most international meetings fail to produce the significant results promised by advanced reports and envisioned by a hopeful public, perhaps the Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference opening in London on September 10 will prove the exception. At stake will be Britain's entry into the European Economic Community and the future of the Commonwealth . . . European political integration without the British and their conventional supporters, Belgium and the Netherlands, is now referred to as FRALIT (from the first two letters of the French for France, Germany, and Italy). It adds just another term to what may become the most significant political discussion of the 1960's. Luxembourg remains discreetly quiet in these debates in the hope of becoming the administrative capital for the Community's operating bureaucracy now spread all over Western Europe . . . Dr. Weil's interesting study of the International Court of Justice brings into clearer perspective the Court's recent decision on the Temple of Preah Vihear. As the Cambodian claim to the disputed site was being sustained, Thailand, in a peak of nationalistic nonsense, boycotted subsequent SEATO meetings (Dean Acheson of the U.S. represented Cambodia in Court), cutoff trade relations with Poland (ICJ President Bohan Winarski is Polish), and reportedly expressed utter disbelief that justices from nations allied with Thailand could have voted against her position . . . The International Labor Organization elected Alexandre Parodi of France as Chairman for the coming year.

FACTS AND OPINIONS: The fact that in some countries certain families were nearly blanketing all important government positions with their relations was noted in the ALMANAC of April, 1961. We mentioned then the Kennedys and the Macmillans; the Bandaranaikes in Ceylon and the Slims of Tunisia. While these families have been slowly expanding their power, some more examples have recently come to light. Now very much in a family way is Cuba with brothers Fidel and Raul in the top two positions. At the top in Laos is Prince Souvanna Phouma and his half-brother Prince Souvannaphong. In Viet Nam, ot only are the President and Vice President brothers, but the latters's wife is said to be the most powerful figure in the national legislature. All this new evidence by way of saying that blood in republics is just as thick as it is in monarchies.

THE INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE:

Advisory Opinion on Payment of Special Assessments

by DR. GORDON WEIL

The International Court of Justice, one of the principal organs of the United Nations, is now faced with making what will perhaps be its most important decision. The General Assembly has asked the fifteen-member World Court to render an advisory opinion as to whether special U.N. assessments to support operations in the Gaza strip and in the Congo are binding on all Members.

As the successor to the Permanent Court of International Justice, an organ of the League of Nations, the Hague Tribunal has a history extending over forty years. During this period, it has been called upon to render decisions in contentious cases and to provide advisory opinions to the League and the U.N. and their subsidiary organs. In the first instance, two or more states have agreed to submit a given question to the Court for adjudication and to abide by the decision. They may submit the case on the basis of a special agreement for that case only or by accepting the compulsory jurisdiction of the Court for all cases which may arise over a certain period.

While the decisions on interstate disputes are binding, the Court is occasionally asked to give its opinion on an issue confronting the U.N.; these opinions are not binding. Nevertheless the great prestige of the Court has a considerable influence on the other U.N. organs.

The Court's advisory opinions have dealt with such matters as the status of the former Mandate, South-West Africa, the interpretation of certain peace treaties, the powers of the U.N. Administrative Tribunal, reservations to the Genocide Convention, and membership in the Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization, a specialized agency of the U.N. Only two decisions have directly concerned all Members in their relation to the Organization.

The first of these cases concerned the conditions of admission of a state to membership. The I.C.J. was asked whether a U.N. member was legally able to make its consent to the admission of a new Member contingent on conditions not expressly included in the Charter — namely whether its consent could depend on the condition that states . . . In Asia, an agreement between Malaya, the Philippines, and Thailand was signed in February for economic and cultural cooperation . . . Among the already well established international organizations, developments came even more rapidly. The world-wide attention given to the withdrawal of South Africa's application for readmission to the Commonwealth of Nations plus the acceptance of Cyprus into the organization served to emphasize the Commonwealth's political and economic significance . . . The European Community has tentatively agreed to meet in Bonn on May 19 to continue planning toward political unity. The degree and nature of such unity remains the outstanding question between the Dutch and the other five member states. It is apparently also involved in the ultimate relationship between the Community and EFTA. (Note that EFTA—the Outer Seven—will become almost eight with the less than full participation of Finland in a newly created Joint Council) . . . Dahomey, the Ivory Coast, Niger, and Upper Volta, former colonies of France, decided their association with that country should continue outside the French Community . . . Foreign Ministers of the Western world may be hard pressed to meet all their commitments in the up-coming months. CENTO will be in council on April 26, NATO on May 8, and the OAS on May 24 . . . Paul-Henri Spaak resigned the Secretary-Generalship of NATO in order to reenter Belgian politics. The Netherland's Dirk U. Stikker remains the leading choice for the position . . . Although Mauritania has not yet been accepted into the United Nations, it was granted membership in the UN-sponsored Economic Commission for Africa, much to the distress of Morocco.

FACTS OF INTEREST: The appointment of Robert Kennedy to a position in his brother's cabinet highlighted other politically-oriented familial events in the world. Mrs. Bandaranaike's cousin by marriage has recently assumed the duties of parliamentary spokesman for the Ceylonese government in the House of Representatives; the son of the Tunisian President has just become Ambassador to the United States; and Prime Minister MacMillan's son, a member of Parliament, has now become sharply critical of his father's government . . . To separate domestic from international crisis is becoming nearly impossible in today's world. The repercussions of nearly every major "internal" problem affects the international policies of nearly every other country, reverberating in capitals and secretariats around the world. What is to Portugal an internal difficulty in Angola has reached the UN; what have been to Rhodesia and South Africa matters of domestic interest has touched the United Kingdom, the Commonwealth, and every indepedent state in Africa. What all nations must finally conclude is that the word has changed, that "intervention"' has lost its traditional connotation, and that old views mean little in new times.

PREFACE

The 1921 edition of The LAWYERS' LIST has been compiled with all of the scrupulous care customarily employed by its publisher in the effort to maintain the standards of this publication as regards accuracy and reliability. It is still impossible to present a reliable list of lawyers for Germany, Russia, Austria, or for several of the other European countries. The compilation for Great Britain is now quite dependable, while the compilations for the other foreign countries included in this work are as trustworthy as it has been possible for us to make them.

The LAWYERS' LIST is a selected list of Legal Practitioners, international in scope. It is assembled with the most painstaking care; with assistance and counsel from authoritative and responsible sources. It serves as a guide in the selection of Counsel, and is published for the use of Members of the Bar, the legal departments of Corporations, and others requiring the services of legal correspondents.

In the present edition, for the year 1921, the work of revision has been accomplished as the result of extensive investigation, covering every city and town of the several countries represented in this volume. The most careful and comprehensive inquiry has been made in respect to the character and standing of the Members of the Bar named in The LAWYERS' LIST, and it is believed that this work contains only the names of able, responsible lawyers who are deserving of the fullest confidence.

Eminent Members of the Bar in the principal cities and towns of the United States, for years associated with The LAWYERS' LIST, have aided in the compilation for this country. They have given the publisher of The LAWYERS' LIST the benefit of their knowledge and experience, and their familiar acquaintance with many
